

Bulletin from Mayor Elaine Scruggs

We are now just ten months away from Super Bowl XLII, which, of course, will be played right here in Glendale.

For those of you who want to get involved with the 2008 Super Bowl, the opportunities are there. The Arizona Super Bowl Host Committee is actively seeking volunteers for events related to the big game. Organizers estimate that 10,000 volunteers will be needed for the week of the game. These volunteers will be responsible for all kinds of jobs related to Super Bowl events. Many of these events will not be able to take place without the help from volunteers.

You can find out more about the Arizona Super Bowl Host Committee and complete a volunteer application at www.azsuperbowl.com. An application must be completed by anyone who wishes to take part in Super Bowl related volunteer activities.

You can also sign up for the Super Bowl Host Committee Membership Club at www.azsuperbowl.com/membership_club.aspx. If you sign up for the club, you will receive all kinds of Host Committee gear and logo items and you will be registered in a drawing for two Super Bowl tickets!

The Host Committee's Emerging Business program will be hosting a workshop later this Spring to help minority- and women-owned businesses learn more about how to do business with the Super Bowl. Keep an eye on my bulletins for more information about this program.

I hope that many of you are able to get involved with some of the events during the week of the Super Bowl. It will be an exciting time in Glendale and I encourage everyone to participate.

Thank you taking the time to read my "Glendale Bulletins". Please contact me at (623) 930-2260 or mayorscruggs@glendaleaz.com, if you have any comments or questions. I strive to provide the most timely information and best possible service to you, the citizens of Glendale. I sincerely appreciate your feedback.
