Being Safe This Summer Not an Impossible Mission With “Operation: Safe Summer” in Glendale.

The city of Glendale is launching a campaign designed to reinforce safety messages during the summer with residents; titled “Operation: Safe Summer.” This event will be kicked off in conjunction with National Safety Month, and culminates with a public event at Westgate on June 20.

There are several departments that will offer programs and events to remind residents of their mission: to keep the city’s residents safe. These departments include the Police and Fire Departments, the Transportation Services Department and Parks, Recreation and Library Services.

The campaign features a different safety message each week, covering timely summer topics such as kids out of school for the summer, children being home alone and out riding bicycles more often, heat-related issues, vacation and travel safety, BBQ and fireworks precautions, and of course, water and pool safety. Information will be distributed at public facilities in Glendale and at certain events as well.

The public event, called “Surviving the Summer,” will be held on June 20, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at Westgate Entertainment District, 6770 N. Sunrise Blvd. Held in the shopping center’s Fountain Park, this free event will feature a variety of agencies and vendors educating residents on water and sun safety and much more.
