

Legislative Link Update Week of February 11 - February 15, 2013

Today marks the 33rd day of the legislative session. Monday, February 11th marked the deadline to introduce new bills, although the subject of bills can still be altered through strike everything amendments. As usual, there was a flurry of legislative activity in the last few days as legislators rushed to get bills introduced prior to the deadline. A total of 1,212 bills, resolutions, and memorials have now been introduced by the members of the House and the Senate.

The Governor's Office held a press conference earlier this week announcing the introduction of a bill containing the recommendations of her Transaction Privilege Tax (TPT) Simplification Task Force. The bill, HB 2657, is scheduled to be heard in the House Ways & Means Committee on Monday afternoon. While cities statewide support and are working to implement 7 of the 10 task force recommendations, there are 3 recommendations that we are concerned with including the proposal to eliminate construction sales tax also known as prime contracting. This proposal would have a negative impact on city revenue collections and reduce the funding available to pay for the increased services associated with new development. The city will continue to oppose any provisions that negatively impact our fiscal sustainability and financial independence.

Friday, February 22nd is the last day to hear bills in their chamber of origin (i.e. House bills must have been passed by the full House and Senate bills must have been passed by the full Senate). This means that any bills that have not received a committee hearing and been passed by Friday will likely not be moving forward in the legislative process as standalone bills – although their provisions could always be amended on to other bills that are moving forward. For this reason, you will see there are more bills than usual scheduled for committee hearings this week.

The attached list includes a summary of introduced bills that may be of interest to you. You'll see that the weekly bill tracking list has grown significantly as a result of all the last minute bill introductions. Bills that received action during the week are highlighted in the attachment. We have not highlighted bills whose only action was to be referred to their respective committees, as this is a procedural action and not a sign that the bill is necessarily moving forward in the legislative process.

The following bills are currently scheduled for a committee hearing during the upcoming week. Please note, the Legislature will be meeting and holding committee hearings on Monday, February 18th despite the Presidents' Day holiday observed by other government agencies.

H2657: TRANSACTION PRIVILEGE TAX CHANGES

Numerous changes related to transaction privilege taxes (TPT) and affiliated excise taxes. Requirements for the sourcing of transactions are established, effective January 1, 2014. Retail sales of tangible personal property must be sourced to the seller's business location if the seller receives the order at a business location in Arizona, or to the purchaser's location in Arizona if the seller receives the order at a business location outside of Arizona. For the purposes of municipal excise taxes, the jurisdiction with the right to tax a sale of tangible personal property is the municipality where the order is received (defined), or where the stock is located from which the property is taken, or where the transfer of title or possession of the property occurred. The gross receipts from leasing or renting tangible personal property must be sourced to the lessor's business location in Arizona or to the lessee's address if the lessor does not have a business location in Arizona. The list of exemptions from the retail TPT classification is modified to remove sales to nonresidents for use outside the state if the vendor ships or delivers the property out of the state, and sales of property that is shipped or delivered directly to a destination outside the U.S. for use in a foreign country. Effective January 1, 2015, the prime contracting and owner builder sales transaction privilege tax classifications are eliminated and replaced with a manufactured building dealer classification. The sale of tangible personal property to a "contractor" (defined), regardless of whether it will be incorporated into a building or structure, is considered to be a retail sale and is subject to retail TPT unless otherwise exempt. Prime contracting TPT distributions to political subdivisions are deleted. Tangible personal property sold to a manufactured building dealer is only exempt from the retail TPT classification only if the property is to be incorporated or fabricated into a manufactured building. Numerous items are removed from the list of deductions from the tax base for the manufactured building dealer classification (formerly prime contracting). Once the distribution of revenues for municipal or county infrastructure improvements related to manufacturing facilities has reached the maximum amount, 40 percent of the remaining TPT revenues from the retail classification are designated as the distribution base for state shared revenues, increased from 20 percent. The Department of Revenue is required, rather than permitted, to collect and administer TPT and use taxes imposed by municipalities and to enter into intergovernmental agreements with municipalities to provide a uniform method of administration, collection, audit and licensing of TPT and affiliated excise taxes. Municipalities are prohibited from employing auditors and entering into contracts with a party other than the state for the collection, administration and processing of TPT or affiliated taxes. Municipalities are prohibited from levying a TPT or use tax on construction contracting, owner builder sales or speculative building. Municipalities are no longer prohibited from levying a TPT or use tax on sales of motor vehicles to nonresidents for use outside the state or on any amount attributable to development fees incurred in relation to construction. Effective January 1, 2014, if a county or special taxing district levies one or more excise taxes on the effective date of this legislation, and if approved by the voters at a county-wide or district-wide election, a county or district is authorized to levy an excise tax on the storage, use or consumption in the county of tangible personal property purchased from a retailer, as a percentage of the sales price. The tax must be at a rate equal to the sum of all the excise taxes levied on the effective date. The Department of Revenue is required to collect the tax. Session law provides that this legislation does not apply to or affect the tax liability of contracts entered into before January 1, 2015 by a person engaged in business under the prime contracting classification or the construction contracting, owner builder or speculative builder classification of the model city tax code, or to the sale of tangible personal property to a contractor for incorporation into a project that was subject to a tax deduction.
