GLENDALE DEPUTY CITY CLERK AWARDED TOP STATE HONOR Darcie McCracken Selected as Deputy Clerk of the Year

GLENDALE, Ariz. – The Arizona Municipal Clerks’ Association (AMCA) has named Glendale Deputy City Clerk Darcie McCracken as its Deputy Clerk of the Year. The honor was bestowed July 26 at the AMCA’s annual conference. Nominees were evaluated based on examples of outstanding service which includes finding innovative ways to serve their municipality, profession or community. McCracken has been a member of ACMA for 11 years, serving on the board in a variety of positions including as president, vice president and treasurer. She holds master municipal clerk, public manager (CPM) and elections officer certifications.

“I am absolutely thrilled to be recognized by my peers within the AMCA,” said Glendale Deputy Clerk Darcie McCracken. “The professionals in the association are mentors to me and their guidance and support have made my career success possible.” McCracken assists with the process of conducting city elections for Glendale. She plays an important role in responding to public records requests and she helps with the task of managing and retaining records for the city.

McCracken has been an employee with the city of Glendale for 30 years and has been deputy clerk since 2005. She graduated from Glendale High School and has lived in Glendale for most of her life.
