GLENDALE EMPLOYEE ELECTED TO STATEWIDE LEADERSHIP POSITION

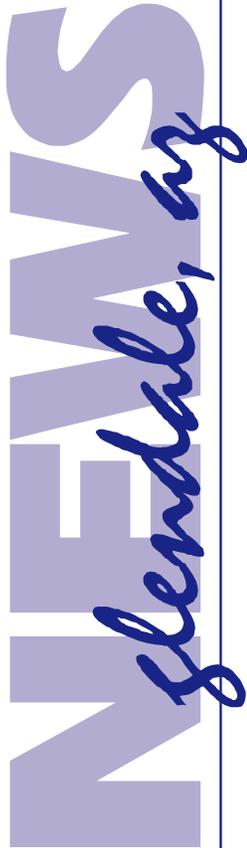

GLENDALE, Ariz. – Glendale’s Deputy City Clerk has been elected president of the Arizona Municipal Clerks’ Association. Darcie McCracken will be sworn in as the organization’s new president on July 22.

McCracken has been a Glendale employee for 22 years and in the clerk’s office since 2004. She has also completed training to be a Certified Municipal Clerk. For the Arizona Municipal Clerks’ Association, McCracken has previously served as treasurer and vice president.

The Arizona Municipal Clerks’ Association is a non-political organization that assists clerks in Arizona towns and cities and improves operations.

Additionally, the organization sponsors training in partnership with ASU to assist clerks in obtaining professional certifications issued by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks. The association also conducts statewide elections training with the Arizona League of Cities and Towns. McCracken will serve as president for one year.
