“Inside Secrets for HOAs”
How to Collect Delinquent Assessments and Survive these Tough Economic Times

GLENDALE, Ariz. – Are homeowners delinquent in the payment of assessments to your HOA? Is your HOA having difficulty paying the association’s bills due to the shortfalls created by owners not paying assessments? If so, here is a seminar for you and your HOA board members.

Glendale residents who serve on homeowners associations are encouraged to register now for this free seminar 6 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 13, at the Glendale Adult Center, Room 108, located at 5970 W. Brown St. This class is presented by the city’s Neighborhood Partnership Office as part of the HOA Academy program.

Attendees will learn the legal remedies available for HOAs to collect delinquent assessments, including lien rights, foreclosure, justice court lawsuits, garnishment of wages, bank accounts and rent.

In addition, homeowners who owe money to an HOA, can attend to get ideas on the best way to work with the HOA to get caught up on the payments.

This seminar is a must for all Glendale HOA boards. The last day to register is Wednesday, Oct.6. To register, call 623-930-2916. Class size is limited to the first 35 residents.
