GLENDALE CELEBRATES EARTH DAY, VALLEY BIKE MONTH WITH SOCIAL MEDIA CONTEST, GIVEAWAYS

GLENDALE, Ariz. – April in the Valley of the Sun brings awareness for clean air and environmental issues, with Valley Metro’s Bike Month as well as the globally-recognized Earth Day. Glendale is doing its part for environmental awareness by reminding residents to ‘go green’ in their homes and communities, and offering residents a chance to win prizes for showing what their green efforts are.

“Like” riding your bike? Not loving record-high gas prices? Now you can get rewarded for riding your bike in Glendale and save some money and help the environment at the same time. April 17 is Bike to Work & School Day; Simply “Travel Green” and ride your bike to work any day that week (April 15-19), post it on Facebook with a photo of you riding your bike and tag the city of Glendale so we can see you in action! Then, be sure you enter the Travel Green Contest on the city’s Facebook page (click on the contest tab at www.facebook.com/GlendaleAZ) to be entered in a random drawing for gift cards and freebies from local eateries.

For those who don’t have a Facebook page, entries can also be emailed to sadams@glendaleaz.com. Send a message with your name, phone number and email address to be entered into the random drawing. Make sure you send along a photo, too! Invite your friends to ride that week, also – this contest is open to both Glendale employees and residents.

In conjunction with the city’s lineup of events during April, enter to win the Party for the Planet Facebook contest, in which you tell us how your household does their part for the earth. A random drawing will be held for a ‘green’ prize pack at the end of April.
