GLENDALE'S HUMAN RESOURCES DIRECTOR COMPLETES GLOBAL LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

GLENDALE, Ariz. – The city of Glendale's Human Resources Director, Alma Carmicle, has completed the Global Leadership Certificate Program at Thunderbird, The Garvin School of International Management.

The 12-week program is a comprehensive course in global management, which is a non-degree business program designed and taught by Thunderbird's experienced faculty. The seminar series analyzes culturally diverse and global business issues from the perspective of the functional areas of an MBA program.

"Recognizing that we are heading into a global economy, I wanted to prepare myself and staff," said Carmicle, who notes that the city often receives job applicants from around the world. "This certificate program gave me a greater understanding of many other cultures and regions."

"This program, which has always been immensely popular, is a great way for executives from diverse industries to share best practices," said Program Director Bonnie Cameron Wells. "At the end of the program, the network is so strong, that many graduating classes stay in touch - giving participants a chance to continue to interact and share learnings."
