GLENDALE ANNOUNCES PUBLIC SURVEY TO GATHER INPUT ON FAIR HOUSING CONCERNS

GLENDALE, Ariz. – As a recipient of federal funds, Glendale works with our non-profit partners to educate and address identified fair housing issues in the city. Glendale announces a new survey called the “Analysis of Impediments Study” that is available on-line at:

www.glendaleaz.communitypartnership/communityrevitalization.cfm

The city encourages the public to provide input on any impediments or any barriers that are experienced, which could affect their rights to fair housing choice.

Impediments to fair housing choice are defined as any actions, omissions, or decisions that restrict, or have the effect of restricting, the availability of housing choices, based on race, color, religion, sex, disability, familial status, or national origin.

Glendale is committed to fair housing practices and wants to ensure it is doing all that it can to eliminate barriers to fair housing. The “Analysis of Impediments Study,” will be available until April 30, 2010. Please be aware to complete the survey, you will be linked to a new website.
