GLENDALE CITY MANAGER RECOGNIZED FOR LEADERSHIP AND CONTRIBUTION TO COMMUNITY

GLENDALE, Ariz. – For his significant contributions to the Glendale community, City Manager Ed Beasley is the recipient of an award from the American Society for Public Administrators (ASPA.)

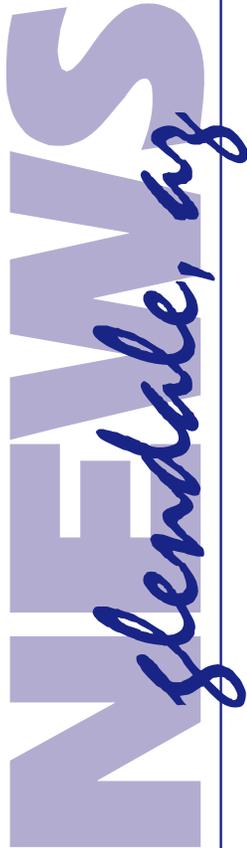

Over the last several years Glendale, Arizona has been transformed from a bedroom community to a city with its own identity and booming economy. The city has created vibrant neighborhoods for its residents, attracted new business, seen the preservation of its historic districts and created a sports and entertainment district like no other in the country.

As city manager, Ed Beasley has managed the intricate details of all of these projects. Under his leadership, city staff has successfully executed national and international sporting events, while continuing to provide quality city services to its residents.

Since becoming Glendale's City Manager in 2001, he has transformed Glendale into a leader in the metropolitan area and has empowered and motivated city staff to "drive the dream". Beasley has challenged staff to search for ways to improve business and become more efficient by promoting outstanding customer service for citizens, clients and the business community.

To honor his efforts, the ASPA will acknowledge Beasley's significant contributions toward excellence in public service at its annual Superior Service Awards Luncheon, held on Monday, May 7 at the Phoenix Convention Center, located in Downtown Phoenix at 100 N. 3rd Street.
