GLENDALE ANNOUNCES OPPORTUNITIES FOR RESIDENTS TO GET INVOLVED IN REDEVELOPMENT PROJECT

GLENDALE, Ariz. – As the city moves forward with its efforts to revitalize and redevelop the city's namesake street, Glendale Avenue, residents and business owners are being invited to take part in the project.

Coined the Glendale Centerline Project, the Glendale City Council has made the redevelopment of the Glendale Avenue Corridor a priority for the community. Currently, the Council is involved in an intensive redevelopment visioning and planning process.

The process will ultimately result in the creation of a long-range redevelopment plan, which will include tangible goals and outcomes for the area that will create economic investment by private business, increased home values and amenities for residents.

Residents and business owners are being invited to two separate events where they will be able to ask questions, provide feedback and offer input on the project.

The events are free but registration is required for attendance.
